CAMPAIGN TO RECYCLE ONE MILLION CELL PHONES TO BE LAUNCHED ON EARTH DAY

Campaign seeks to make cell phone recycling as easy as bottle recycling

This Earth Day, on Friday, April 22, EARTHWORKS will launch “Recycle My Cell Phone,” a campaign to recycle one million cell phones in one year, thereby doubling the annual national rate of cell phone recycling. The Recycle My Cell Phone campaign seeks to keep the toxic metals in phones, like lead, mercury and arsenic, out of landfills, save energy and reduce the number of new open-pit mines because phones that cannot be used will be recycled for gold, copper and other valuable metals. The Boulder Co-op Market will serve as a local site for dropping off used cell phones to be recycled.

A fact sheet with more information on the Recycle My Cell Phone campaign can be found at http://www.recyclemycellphone.org/RMCP\_factsheet.pdf

WHEN: Friday, April 22, 2005,
11:00 am – 3:00pm

WHERE: Boulder Co-op Market
1904 Pearl Street

NOTE TO TV AND PRINT PHOTOGRAPHERS:

Visuals will include people dropping used cell phones in recycling bins, spokesperson discussing the goal of recycling one million cell phones this year.
